DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1 is rejected as understood under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Flynn (US Patent 5,455,474) in view of Bisel et al. (US Patent 5,036,930). Flynn discloses two longitudinally facing metallic discs (See Figs. 1-2), passing through the center of both layered discs is a vertical support (44) which allows clockwise and counterclockwise spin of said discs, perpendicular peripheral width of surfaces of said discs will be magnetized for means of interaction with stationary electromagnets of same polarity of said peripheral surfaces, said interaction will cause said magnets to mutually repel each other causing said discs to spin in opposite directions. Flynn does not disclose the magnetic motor being a means for propelling a vehicle. Bisel et al. discloses a magnetic motor being used as a means for propelling a vehicle by providing a turning power of said drive rod/shaft to cause the vehicle to be moved in either a forward or rearward direction. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in this art to substitute the magnetic motor disclosed in Flynn for the magnetic motor disclosed in the vehicle of Bisel et al. because the examiner takes Official Notice of the equivalence of the magnetic motor disclosed in Flynn (magnetic motor with magnetic discs caused to rotate in opposing directions) and the magnetic motor disclosed in Bisel et al. (magnetic motor using magnetic repulsion to provide the reciprocating action of an internal combustion engine) for their use in the art and the selection of any of these known equivalents to provide power for the drive shaft would be within the level of ordinary skill in the art. Either magnetic motor configuration would provide power to operate the drive shaft of the vehicle.
